

Stuart John

HEAD, MARKETING COMMUNICATIONS

Stuart joined Leidos in 2019 and has a wealth of senior management experience in the defence, policing, financial services, sport and motor industries. He is responsible for defining and delivering the marketing communications strategy for the Logistics and Mission Support Division, building the brand and delivering engaging content across a range of channels. Stuart also leads communications activities for the flagship £6.5bn Logistics Commodities & Services Transformation Programme for the UK Ministry of Defence, implementing technological advancements for one of the world's foremost military operations whilst generating millions in savings for Government.

Prior to joining Leidos, Stuart spent seven years as Head of Communications and Engagement for Gwent Police, which included an 18-month secondment leading policing and security communications for the NATO Summit. He also managed security and policing communications for the Ryder Cup. Stuart has worked in a senior management capacity for Sport Wales, Commonwealth Games, Exide Europe and as communications lead for a major transformation project at The Royal Mint.

A graduate of Oxford Brookes University and the University of Glamorgan, Stuart is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Marketing and a Prince 2 Practitioner.
